

Scripture Typer — Student Privacy & Content Overview

For school administrators

WHAT SCRIPTURE TYPER IS

A touch-typing curriculum for grades 1 and up with Scripture at its core. Students learn keyboarding through 108 structured lessons, where the majority of drills, exercises, and passages come straight from the Bible.

BIBLE CONTENT

- Translations: King James Version, Berean Standard Bible (a modern, accurate translation), and World English Bible, among others. The school chooses which translation students see.
- No outside content: there is no user-generated content, no chat or messaging between students, no external links, and no advertising anywhere in the product.

WHAT DATA WE COLLECT — AND WHAT WE NEVER DO

- We collect only: student name and class (as provided by the school), the school Google account used for sign-in, and typing performance (speed, accuracy, lesson progress, test results).
- We never: show ads, sell or share student data, build behavioral profiles, or track children individually in our analytics. Student data is used solely to provide the educational service.
- Encouragement by design: students never lose points or streaks, and there are no failure states. The product is built to encourage, not punish.

COMPLIANCE

- COPPA: we comply fully. For students under 13, the school provides consent on parents' behalf for school use, per FTC guidance; this document serves as our notice of data practices.
- State student-privacy laws: we meet operator requirements — reasonable data security, no targeted advertising, no sale of student information, no profiling — and are glad to sign your standard vendor form if you use one.
- Student records: we handle records consistent with FERPA principles. The school owns its data, and we export or delete it on request at any time.

SECURITY

Student data is encrypted in transit and at rest, hosted in the United States, and access is scoped so each school sees only its own students. Sign-in uses the school's existing Google accounts. We never handle student passwords.
